My Contribution

My contribution during the flipped class was as follows:

1. Active participation
 - As a team member I could share my option and my solution regarding the problem where we were solving. In every problem I could give my option and could share what I have written. I could share more and participate more.
2. Scribe
 - As a scribe I have jotted down all my friends works, discuss what could be the possible answer among all.

My strengths

Some of the strengths I have felt during the activity are as follows:

1. Confidence
 - I was confidence enough to go for public speaking. During the activity I have shared each and every concept what have understood to the team members.
2. Was able to make argument
 - During the activity could justify my answer regarding what have Witten, and even asked justification what they have written.

My weaknesses

I always had one weakness that was not able to explain or say I can't give a clear idea what I have understood in the class.

Teamwork (Positive)

some of the positive vibe of being in the group are as follows:

- 1) Scribe
 - I have written each and every one understanding.
- 2) Our team leader would personally explain a point if one of our team does not understand.
- 3) Our time keeper would alert us on how much time we have, with it we could do proper time management.

Teamwork (To be improved)

From the group activity I felt there were nothing to be improved because we had good corporation understanding between us.

Self-learning Evaluation (Lesson Contents)

Following are the lesson I have learnt:

- 1) Crammer's rule which one of the determinants methods.
- 2) We have learnt how to represent the matrix from of linear equation.
- 3) We have learnt how to solve a problem by using matrix method.

Lesson learnt application

Based on they key lesson learnt today, I found the following application:

- 1) We can use matrix to represent real world statistics such as population
- 2) It can also can business to analysing and solving complex problem.
